LOGLINE

When basketball-obsessed Aleks moves in across the street, Asian-Canadian teen Jake finds himself trying out for the basketball team to get his attention in this classic coming-of-age drama set in the digital age.

SYNOPSIS

Everyone wants something from high school senior Jake: his father is pushing him to try out for the basketball team – an abandoned dream of his own – and his girlfriend wants to take their relationship to the next level.

But it's not until Aleks, an openly gay teen with a love for basketball, moves in across the street that Jake begins to struggle with his own desires. To get closer to Aleks, Jake devotes himself to making the basketball team – only to realize it's not basketball he really wants. Meanwhile, Jake finds out that his father is having an affair, which leaves him questioning his entire family foundation.

Distraught and confused, Jake pulls away - until he's finally outed as gay. With the truth in the open, Jake and his father come to terms with the reality of their relationship and expectations for each other. At last able to find the courage to be himself, Jake is ready to face the future with his family and friends by his side.

DIRECTOR'S STATEMENT

Working with the youth, I have seen how social media puts enormous pressure on young minds. Many students look like me, and we are exposed to a confusing world that often defends toxic behaviour and celebrates questionable role models. Additionally, one has cultural elements like "saving face" that one must deal with.

"Saving face" is a strategy to avoid humiliation or embarrassment as a method of survival and a core social value in Asian culture; sexuality is often hidden to "save face." This film continues my exploration of how social media perspectives can connect us but also amplify emotions and alienate us. Many youths face a modern challenge to find themselves amidst a sea of likes, endless chats, YouTube-like videos, and Instagram-like stories. Golden Delicious shows that kids of immigrant families can manage this and, in the end, become stronger.

LEAD ACTOR

Born and raised in Vancouver Ryan trained as a chef for 20 plus years before deciding to become an actor. Ryan believes the same principles in cooking apply to acting which has made him a quick study, " building a character is a lot like building a dish, you need to add layers and depth into the flavours, most importantly the dish has to be balanced and make sense". Since working on Golden delicious Ryan has gone on to play several recurring roles in the television shows Fakes, Tradewinds, Snowpiercer and The Good Doctor. Ryan continues to work occasionally as a chef and still enjoys to create new menus and work with his hands, "I hope that being good at one helps me become better at the other, and keeps me grounded" IMDB

MEDIA QUOTES FOR GOLDEN DELICIOUS

Last Updated Dec 13, 2024

"Films like GOLDEN DELICIOUS only come around once in a blue moon; something so sweet, pure, and insightful in the ways queer people use social media for both identity and dating."

Billy Ray Brewton, managing director of Three Dollar Bill Cinema

"tender and genuine"
Stir Vancouver

"shines a bright light on the power of authenticity"
Stir Vancouver

"Golden Delicious highlights so many important themes; coming out in an Asian family and in a time when social media can do more harm than good, the pressure Asian Canadian teens still feel from their parents to follow a path they didn't necessarily choose, and most importantly this film gives Asian Canadian stories the spotlight they deserve... I loved this film so much!"

LEANNE MCLAREN, iheart Radio
